SUMMARIES OF THE TABLES AND EXPLANATORY NOTES

I

ADMINISTRATIVE DIVISIONS

[TABLE 1, PAGES 1 TO 2]

For the purposes of administration British India is divided into Provinces, varying greatly in area and population. There are eleven provinces, excluding the penal settlement of the Andaman Islands, of which the administration is controlled by the Home Department of the Government of India. Another the twelfth—British Baluchistan—is controlled by the Foreign Department.

Two of these provinces—Madras and Bombay—are called Presidencies, and each is administered by a Governor presiding over an executive Council.

Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjab, and Burma are administered by Lieutenant-Governors, without an executive Council. In each of these provinces, as well as in Madras and Bombay, there is a Legislative Council. The Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces also holds the office of Chief Commissioner of Oudh, formerly a separate province.

The head of the administration in the Central Provinces and Assam is a Chief Commissioner; in these provinces there is no local Legislative Council, and all laws for them, and for the other provinces in which there are no Councils, are made in the Council of the Governor-General.

Baluchistan, Coorg, Berar, and Ajmer-Merwara are also administered by Chief Commissioners, the office being held ex-officio by officials of the Political Service: by the Agent to the Governor-General for Baluchistan, by the Resident in Mysore for Coorg, by the Resident in Hyderabad for Berar, and by the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana for Ajmer-Merwara.

Another province is about to be constituted, administered like Baluchistan, from the trans-Indus districts now forming part of the Panjab.

The Andaman Islands are also an ex-officio Chief Commissionership, held by the Superintendent of the penal settlement of Port Blair.

The administrative unit in all the provinces is the district, at the head of which is an officer commonly known as the district officer, who is officially styled Collector and Magistrate in the Regulation Provinces and Deputy Commissioner in the non-Regulation Provinces. In each district is a number of sub-divisions, each in charge of an officer subordinate to the district officer. In all provinces except Madras a number of districts are grouped to form a Commissionership or Division, the officer in charge of the Division (Commissioner) having general control of the district officers and forming a link of communication between them and the Provincial Government. There are in British India (excluding the Andaman islands):

47 Divisions or Commissionerships,
249 Districts,
1,052 sub-divisions of Districts, for an area of 978,222 square miles containing a population of 231,019,411 according to the census of 1901. The revenue from this area amounted in 1899-1900 to £29,488,021—in rupees 44,23,20,311, and of this sum £20,337,692 (Rs 30,50,65,387) represented the revenue derived from the land.

JUDICIAL DIVISIONS

[TABLES 1 AND 2, PAGES 3 TO 5]

For the purpose of the judicial administration of the country, the provinces are divided in a manner which corresponds closely to the executive divisions. In these divisions there are 9,528 judicial officers of various degrees as follows:

72 Judges of High or Chief Courts, with jurisdiction over the whole province
127 Judges of Courts with jurisdiction extending beyond one district
474 Judges of Chief Courts of a district
1,264 Judges of District Courts, not being the Chief Courts of a district
7,591 Judges of other subordinate courts

II—continued

JUDICIAL DIVISIONS—continued

These last consist almost exclusively of natives, and there are also many natives amongst the judges of the superior courts, including the High Courts.

In 1899 these officers decided 4,495,553 cases, classed as follows :

	Regular	Miscellaneous	Total
Civil jurisdiction—
Original cases	1,676,892	1,066,120	2,743,012
Appeals	81,994	8,171	90,165
Criminal jurisdiction—
Original cases	1,083,395	107,755	1,191,150
Appeals	69,084	18,571	87,655
Revenue jurisdiction—
Original cases	252,102	110,733	362,835
Appeals	11,710	9,026	20,736

Civil cases represented nearly two-thirds (63 per cent) of the whole number ; regular civil cases formed 39 per cent, and 5 per cent of these were appeals.

Criminal cases represented 28·4 per cent of the whole number, regular cases being 25·6 per cent, and in these the ratio of appeals was 5·9 per cent.

In revenue cases the appeals are under 5 per cent of the regular cases decided.

The distribution of the civil original cases is as follows, as regards the larger provinces :

Madras	888,941
Bengal	731,314
Bombay	380,947
Panjab	300,805
North-Western Provinces	224,186

Looking at the number of cases and the number of the population, the ratio of distribution works out as follows :

Madras	1 case in 40 persons.
Bengal	1 " 97 "
Bombay	1 " 49 "
Panjab	1 " 69 "
North-Western Provinces	1 " 209 "

The receipts of the Courts, mainly derived from fees under the Court-fees Act, amounted, in 1899, to R3,62,78,870, while the charges were R3,61,28,400. This was only the second year in which the receipts exceeded the charges, and it may be noted that the items of charge are not completely stated in these statistics. The average annual receipts in the five years ending 1899 were R3,57,05,270, and the charges R3,56,18,539.

In Bengal, Assam, and Madras the receipts always exceed the charges ; but in the other provinces the position is reversed, the charges being greatly in excess of the receipts in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, in Bombay, the Panjab, Burma, and the Central Provinces. Bengal contributes a large proportion of the total receipts, 36 per cent in 1899.

III

CIVIL JUSTICE

[TABLES I TO 4, PAGES 6 TO 17]

The number of suits instituted in the Civil Courts has averaged slightly over two millions annually in the last five years :

1895	2,062,425
1896	1,989,113
1897	2,044,299
1898	2,140,368
1899	2,072,040

Suits under the Rent law for arrears of rent and for eviction of tenants, largely increased in 1898 and 1899 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh; in Bengal also there has been a steady increase in suits for arrears of rent in the last three years.

The suits are thus classed :

	1898	1899
For money or movable property	1,276,049	1,212,205
Under the Rent law	602,244	614,399
On mortgages	109,188	104,463
For immovable property	93,105	88,087
For specific relief	21,150	18,473
Others	38,632	34,413

Thus about 97 per cent of the litigation before the Civil Courts arises out of claims for money, rent, and title.

The relative extent of litigation, as indicated by the number of suits instituted, and the proportion of litigation to population, in each province are stated below :

	1898		1899
	Number	per 1,000 of population	Number	per 1,000 of population
Bengal	630,538	8.8	657,578	9.2
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	432,402	9.2	415,936	8.9
Madras	373,792	10.5	371,826	10.4
Panjab	273,149	13.1	255,079	12.2
Bombay	213,034	11.3	183,301	9.7
Central Provinces	97,838	9	72,514	6.7
Burma	51,075	6.7	54,257	7
Assam	27,863	5.1	27,335	5
Berar	28,411	9.8	19,728	6.8

Relatively to the population the Panjab is the most litigious province in India, Bombay and Madras following next.

In Bengal 285,935 suits, and in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh 279,654 suits, were instituted under the Rent law, the bulk of suits in both cases being for arrears of rent and for eviction. Of suits for money or movable property the largest number are instituted in Madras. Of suits on mortgages 32,286 were instituted in Bengal and 29,649 in Madras, the proportion to population being about twice as large in Madras as in Bengal.

The suits instituted involved a money value of ₹27,76,56,607 (£18,510,440), classified as follows :

	Number
not exceeding ₹10	404,445
above ₹10 and not exceeding ₹50	891,487
above ₹50 and not exceeding ₹100	339,330
above ₹100 and not exceeding ₹500	290,434
above ₹500 and not exceeding ₹1,000	31,521
above ₹1,000 and not exceeding ₹5,000	19,521
above ₹5,000 and not exceeding ₹10,000	2,116
exceeding ₹10,000	1,709

Thus the suits in which the value involved does not exceed ₹500 (£33) are about 92 per cent of the whole number, and suits above that value fall away rapidly and greatly in number.

Of the total number of suits before the Courts, half were uncontested and were disposed of as follows :

Compromised	270,303
Decreed on confession	185,549
Decreed ex parte	663,933
Dismissed ex parte	23,983

III—concluded

CIVIL JUSTICE—concluded

Contested cases were about 22 per cent of the whole, judgment being given for the plaintiff in 371,123 cases and for the defendant in 110,588 cases. Relatively very few cases are referred to arbitration.

The average duration of cases varies much from year to year and in each province. The highest average in 1899 was 137 days in Madras for contested cases, and 93 days in Bombay for uncontested cases. The duration of regular appeals from decrees is much greater. The average number of days in 1899 was:

Bombay	.	.	.	.	.	236
Madras	.	.	.	.	.	229
Bengal	.	.	.	.	.	225
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	.	.	.	.	.	166
Panjab	.	.	.	.	.	195
Assam	.	.	.	.	.	226
Central Provinces	.	.	.	.	.	79

In Burma the appellate work is disposed of with as much relative speed as the original work, the time occupied being in Upper Burma 43 days and in Lower Burma 69 days.

Of the 137,497 appeals before the Courts in 1899 there were 6,117 in which the decisions were confirmed and 5,110 which were dismissed for default or were otherwise not prosecuted. In the contested appeals, numbering 77,207, the decisions were reversed in 15,460 cases, being about one-fifth of the whole, and modified in 9,917 cases.

IV

CRIMINAL JUSTICE

[TABLES 1 TO 6, PAGES 18 TO 29]

The average number of offences reported annually in the last five years was 1,480,160, in a population amounting, according to the census of 1891, to 221,130,073. Of these 1,240,300, or 83·8 per cent, were returned as true; and 1,082,693 cases were brought to trial.

The number of persons concerned averaged 1,764,747. In 1899 they amounted (including persons whose trial was pending from the preceding year) to 1,819,599, being 0·82 per cent of the census population. Of these 794,658 were acquitted or discharged and 884,330 convicted; the others having died, escaped, or remained untried at the end of the year.

Testing the relative criminality of the different regions of India by the number of cases brought to trial, the results are as follow in 1899:

	No.	No. per 10,000 of population
Madras	304,216	85
Bombay	198,441	105
Bengal	195,368	27
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	121,910	26
Panjab	105,884	51
Burma	75,168	97
Central Provinces	24,281	22
Assam	15,128	28

Of the total number (1,065,445) brought to trial about three-fifths—604,954—were offences against special and local laws. It appears from the detail of the remainder that theft, assaults, and trespass constituted over three-fifths of them:

Affecting life	6,495
Inflicting hurt	101,305
Criminal force and assault	60,977
Theft	76,764
Criminal trespass	46,208

The punishments inflicted on the persons tried by the Courts were :

Death	526
Transportation	1,515
Rigorous imprisonment	139,605
Simple „	15,621
Fine	679,599
Whipping	28,314

The death sentences have stood at a fairly steady level since 1894, except in 1897 when they rose to the high level of 628 in consequence of a very large increase in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and in the Panjab. The number of such sentences in 1899 exceeded those inflicted in 1898 by 65, being about 14 per cent, this increase being the outcome of the lawlessness prevailing in some districts of the Panjab.

Appeals were lodged by 167,387 persons against the decision in their cases in 1899, and the appeals were rejected and sentences confirmed in the case of 113,793 persons, being 68 per cent of the whole. The sentences were reversed or the proceedings quashed in the case of 21,560 persons, being 13 per cent of the whole, while in the case of 7,293 persons a new trial was ordered, and the sentences on 12,313 persons were reduced or otherwise altered. Very few sentences—only 498—were enhanced.

V

PRISONS

[TABLES 1 TO 14, PAGES 30 TO 71]

In 1899 there were in British India 41 central prisons, 194 district prisons, and 506 subordinate prisons and lock-ups, with a daily average population of 104,292 prisoners, of whom 93,701 were convicted prisoners, the others being under trial, except for 483 civil prisoners. The total cost of maintaining the prisons was R61,96,245.

The principal items into which the expenditure is divided are :

	R
Establishment	22,23,878
Dieting	25,87,357
Hospital charges	2,92,941
Clothing and bedding	3,48,046
Sanitation	96,796
Moving prisoners	1,91,075

Against the cost are to be set R13,42,634 earned by the prisoners, leaving the net cost to Government slightly more than 48½ lakhs of rupees.

Of convicted prisoners there were 94,079 in the prisons at the beginning of the year, and 175,146 were imprisoned during the year, making a total of 269,225, of whom 12,324 (4·6 per cent) were females; 168,183 prisoners were released; 1,294 were transported; 69 were sent to lunatic asylums; 40 escaped; 431 were executed; 2,041 died.

The principal offences for which the prisoners were confined were :

Murder and attempted murder	1,966
Dacoity	3,076
Theft	40,506
House breaking and house trespass	15,957
Assaults and aggravated assaults (hurt and grievous hurt)	16,752
Bad livelihood	15,273
Against the public tranquillity	10,222
Receiving stolen property	9,548

V—*continued*PRISONS—continued

The prisoners may be classified as follows as regards religion :

Hindus and Sikhs	.	.	106,622
Muhammadans	.	.	47,443
Buddhists and Jains	.	.	14,424
Christians :
European	.	.	397
Eurasian	.	.	195
Native	.	.	1,202
			1,794

The Muhammadan community contribute a disproportionately large number to the prison population, being to the Hindus and Sikhs as 1 : 2·2, their proportion to the total Hindu and Sikh population of the country being only as 1 to 3·6. But the disproportion does not extend to Muhammadan females, for whereas these form only 3 per cent of the Muhammadan prison population, the proportion of women in the Hindu prison population is 6·9 per cent. Bengal and the Panjab contribute from their large Muhammadan population nearly two-thirds of the prisoners of that religion; and Bombay contributes a disproportionately large number.

The European element in the Christian prison population is mainly recruited from the seafaring class and from the army. Of the Eurasians nearly half are to be found in the prisons of Bengal, Madras also contributing a considerable proportion: elsewhere the number of Eurasians in prison is comparatively small.

As many as 150,393 (about 86 per cent) of the prisoners admitted during the year, were illiterate, and 4,494 were able to read only, while 18,976 (about 10·8 per cent) were able to read and write. The female prisoners were almost entirely illiterate, not more than 85 out of 9,770 being able to read and write, while 13 were able to read only.

The bulk of the male prisoners came from the rural labouring class, their occupations before imprisonment being described as "engaged in agriculture and with animals:" there were 95,187 prisoners of this class. The previous occupations of the other prisoners are thus described :

Domestic or personal service	.	.	.	14,796
Commerce and trade	.	.	.	7,672
Professional	.	.	.	5,920
Mechanical arts, manufactures, engineering operations, etc.,	.	.	.	7,186
Service of Government or local authorities	.	.	.	3,934

Of the prisoners admitted in 1899, well over half—90,857—were sentenced to terms not exceeding three months in duration; and 119,478—being about 68 per cent of the whole—were sentenced to terms not exceeding six months. In about 14 per cent of the admissions the prisoners had been previously convicted.

In the daily average strength (103,677·41) of the prison population in 1899 the daily average of sick was 3,251·26, being 3·1 per cent, and there were 2,263 deaths in the year; this number being much smaller than in 1898 and still smaller number than in 1897 when the mortality was excessive in the prisons of the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, Bengal, and Madras, due in the main to the exceptional conditions of the year which crowded the prisons with an enfeebled population. In the Central Provinces especially there was terrible mortality in 1897—as many as 999—while there were only 175 in 1898 and 103 in 1899.

VI

PORT BLAIR

[TABLES 1 TO 9, PAGES 72 TO 86]

The statistics in these tables, extending back to 1873-74, have now been compiled for the first time from the annual reports of the Settlement. They show that the convict population of the Settlement, which was 7,569 in that year, is now 11,464, of whom only 704 are females. The free resident population has increased in the same period from 838 to 2,776, of whom the females are only slightly less numerous than the males.

The cost of maintenance of the Settlement was in 1899-1900 R15,83,819, chiefly spent for provisions, police, passage money for convicts, forests, and salaries. Against this expenditure is to be set a revenue of R6,16,234, of which not much less than half is obtained from the forests.

Of the 11,465 convicts in the Settlement at the end of 1899-1900, there were 9,757—being about 85 per cent—sentenced to transportation for life, and of these 7,594 were sentenced for murder. The Settlement also contained 2,131 sentenced for dacoity. The former occupations of the male convicts are thus stated :

Agriculturists	6,286
Labourers	1,126
Artisans, including weavers	1,128
Domestic servants	631
Shopkeepers	356
Others	1,234

The Settlement contained 39 Christian convicts, all natives except a European and 4 Eurasians. There were 6,633 Hindus and 2,957 Muhammadans, while there were also 1,755 Buddhists. The number of the Buddhists is relatively large, owing to the system under which long term Burmese prisoners are deported to the Settlement.

Of the 1,259 convicts received in the year as many as 974, being over 77 per cent, were illiterate and the ratio of illiterates would have been still larger but for the Burmese convicts.

There were 475 deaths amongst the convicts, being in the ratio of 42·6 per mille of the number of convicts in the Settlement at the beginning of the year.

The principal employments of the convicts are thus described :

Manufacture	1,314
Prison servants	1,007
Forests	794
Cultivation	546
Commissariat, Medical, and Marine Departments	560

The Settlement contained at the end of the year 2,156 self-supporting convicts whose principal means of subsistence were agriculture 1,231, domestic service 376, artisans 62, cattle-grazing, dairying, and poultry farming 62, shopkeepers 50.

POLICE

[TABLES I TO II, PAGES 87 TO 118]

The district is the unit for the police as it is for the executive and judicial administration. Each district has a force under charge of a Superintendent, aided by one or more assistants, and the whole provincial body is controlled by the Inspector General. In addition to the district police, which is paid from imperial and provincial revenues, there are police in municipalities and cantonments paid from local funds. The strength of the police force which is paid from imperial and provincial revenues was as follows in 1899 :

Inspectors General, Deputy and Assistant Inspectors General	33
District and Assistant Superintendents	470
Inspectors	1,202
Deputy and Sub-Inspectors, or Chief or European Constables	4,928
Head Constables or Sergeants	17,569
Constables, of whom 2,480 were mounted	117,323
Water Constables	517

making a total of 142,042. The cost of this force amounted to Rs. 2,90,20,546 (£1,934,703). The police employed in municipalities, cantonments, etc., represented a force of 1,615 officers and 14,882 men, and the total cost of all the Indian police amounted to Rs. 3,14,09,530 (£2,093,969). Of this sum Rs. 9,51,999 was allotted as pay and allowances of controlling officers; Rs. 39,44,938 as pay and allowances of district and assistant superintendents; and Rs. 2,07,81,852 as pay of subordinate officers and constables.

The great bulk of the police consists of natives, the proportion of Europeans and Eurasians* being very small. A large proportion of the Europeans is employed in the higher ranks, a certain number also being employed in the larger towns as inspectors and constables. In the higher ranks of the force above that of inspector the number of natives is extremely small and that of Eurasians still smaller. The distribution by race in 1899 was as follows:

	Europeans	Eurasians	Natives
District Superintendents	260	4	6
Assistant ditto	185	4	15
Inspectors	265	94	849
Deputy or Sub-Inspectors, Chief and } Head Constables, Sergeants . . . }	136	96	22,734
Constables	92	12	123,182
	938	210	146,786

The force contained 50,553 Muhammadans and 83,150 Hindus.

The number of cognisable cases investigated by the police, either on report or otherwise, in 1899, was 625,302, a larger number than in 1898 (608,500) but a much smaller number than in 1897 (702,414), the increase in 1897 being due to the stress of famine, in the North-Western Provinces, Bengal, Bombay, the Panjab, and the Central Provinces. Of these cases 363,832 (58 per cent) were tried and ended in conviction. Of the number of persons arrested by the police in connection with these cases, 460,431, being 82.4 per cent, were tried and convicted, and 22,440 remained under trial at the close of the year. Of the persons concerned in non-cognisable offences, 979,220 appeared before the Courts; 92,130 were discharged without trial, 210,132 were acquitted or discharged, 279,505 were convicted, and 97,590 were under trial at the close of the year.

Property was recovered in 106,723 cases out of the 233,175 in which it was stolen, being 45.8 per cent of the whole. The property stolen was valued at Rs. 115.36 lakhs and that recovered at only Rs. 33.03 lakhs.

Turning to the record of professional crime dealt with by the police, it appears that thagi by strangulation may be regarded as practically extinct, in British territory at least: there was but one case of this kind in 1897 (in Berar) and none in 1898 and 1899. Thagi by poisoning has also become a rare phenomenon, no cases having been reported from any province in 1898 and 1899. Other forms of professional crime continue, however, to be numerous. Of dacoity there were 673 cases in 1898 and 760 in 1899, more than half of the dacoity cases being reported in both years from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and a large part of the other half from Bengal. In these cases 13,099 persons were reported to have been concerned in 1899, but not more than 3,268 were brought to trial after arrest. Of robbery there were 1,043 cases reported, the number of persons concerned being 2,995. More than three-fourths of these cases are reported from the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. Under the head "cattle theft, etc.," there were 2,690 cases reported in 1899. In this form of professional crime the Panjab claims precedence over the other provinces, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, however, following at no great distance.

The force was armed as follows:

With firearms:
Rifles	2,715
Breech-loading smooth-bores	43,342
Muzzle-loaders	1,299
Without firearms:
Swords	38,487
Batons only	59,551

VII—concluded

POLICE—concluded

207 officers and 1,860 men were dismissed during the year, and 4,597 officers and 15,549 men fined, degraded, or otherwise punished departmentally, while 1,575 officers and men were punished judicially. The 23,788 members of the force who were punished departmentally and judicially constituted 16 per cent of the actual strength.

The standard of education in the force is not high. Of 24,316 officers only 20,946, and of 123,164 men only 52,966, know how to read and write, illiterates being in the ratio of 14 per cent among the officers and as much as 57 per cent among the men.

VIII

MEDICO-LEGAL INVESTIGATIONS

[TABLE 1, PAGE 119]

The Government Chemical Examiners are largely employed in the analyses required for the detection of poison administered with criminal intent to human beings and to cattle. There were 1,596 such cases where human beings were the victims referred to them in 1899, and the average number in the last five years was 1,557. Poison was detected in 915 of the 1,596 cases and the average number of cases in which poison was detected annually was 940. Bengal and the Panjab are the two provinces in which such cases occur most frequently, as will be seen from the figures for 1899 appended:

Bengal	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	331
Panjab	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	283
Bombay	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	91
North-Western Provinces, Oudh, Central Provinces	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	85
Madras	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	72
Burma	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	.	53

Arsenic is the poison most commonly employed, the cases in which this poison was detected numbering 382 out of the whole number of 915 in 1899, other inorganic poisons being used with relative infrequency. Arsenic, it may be observed, is obtained with ease in the bazars and is convenient for use, being sprinkled on the rice or mixed with the dāl (pulse) of the victim. Of organic poisons, the favourite is opium which was used in 223 cases, datura following with 56 cases; but it may be noted that the use of datura as a poison, with disabling not necessarily with murderous intent, is much more common than is indicated by the number of cases referred to the Chemical Examiners. Opium, like arsenic, is most largely employed in Bengal and the Panjab, while but few cases in which datura is the agent are referred except from the North-Western Provinces and the Panjab. In Madras aconite seems to be preferred to opium and datura, and it is also used in Bengal and the Panjab. Strychnine is but little used anywhere, perhaps because its marked characteristic effects make its presence evident.

Of cattle poisoning there were 841 cases in 1899, and the average is 920. These cases are also far more numerous in Bengal and the Panjab than elsewhere. There was a marked increase in these cases in the famine year of 1897 in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces. Arsenic is the agent almost always employed for cattle poisoning, only a few of the whole number of cases in which poison was detected being cases in which abrus precatorius was administered, and these occurred in the North-Western Provinces.

IX

REGISTRATION

[TABLES 1 TO 15, PAGES 120 TO 138]

The number of registrations (2,514,740) effected in 1899-1900 was slightly smaller than in the preceding year (2,562,175), and much smaller than in 1897-98.

The bulk of these registrations consists always of instruments of which registration is compulsory, these representing from year to year about three-fourths of the whole. The principal instruments registered, both in the compulsory and optional classes, are deeds of mortgage, and it is interesting to note how the fluctuations in these follow the vicissitudes of the seasons:

	Mortgages of R100 and more	Mortgages of less than R100
1895-96	523,255	431,496
1896-97	551,524	491,162
1897-98	586,143	550,847
1898-99	541,442	484,362
1899-1900	530,526	475,422

In these figures we trace the effects of the famine of 1896-97. Beginning in September 1896 the famine lasted until September 1897, its greatest intensity being felt in the first six months of 1897. There was a sudden and large increase in the number of mortgages registered in 1896-97, followed by a still larger increase in the following year. With the return of good harvests in 1898-99, the number again declined in 1898-99 and 1899-1900, but not to the level of the years before the famine. In Madras the number of mortgages did not decline at all in 1898-99 and very slightly in 1899-1900.

Similar fluctuations are observable in the number of instruments of sale of immovable property:

	Over R100	Under R100
1895-96	357,988	403,693
1896-97	381,889	440,153
1897-98	402,437	476,917
1898-99	390,457	441,874
1899-1900	388,397	441,713

The registrations of instruments of sale of movable property and of obligations for the payment of money rose markedly during the two bad years, and then declined.

The value of immovable and movable property transferred in the same period has been:

	Immovable R	Movable R
1895-96	63,33,20,586	6,04,31,806
1896-97	70,31,70,145	5,99,96,834
1897-98	66,85,84,249	5,72,13,316
1898-99	63,16,57,767	5,85,77,375
1899-1900	65,63,43,467	5,38,99,046

The income from registration fees varies with the number of registrations, and it was much smaller in 1899-1900 than in the three preceding years, amounting to R43,41,237. The charges amounted to R26,44,320, being about 61 per cent of the income, the average incidence approximating to 60 per cent.

The number of mortgages of immovable property, valued at R100 and upwards, registered in Madras is much larger than in any other province, and that province only comes second to Bengal in regard to mortgages of immovable property of smaller value:

	Value R100 and more	Value under R100
Madras	192,537	172,274
Bombay	60,545	11,694
Bengal	130,850	224,970
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	53,670	27,172
Panjab	59,267	31,539

Madras also contributes a disproportionately large share of the gross income of the department, the receipts in that province amounting in 1899-1900 to R12,65,094, being as much as 29 per cent of the whole.

X
EDUCATION

[TABLES I TO 10, PAGES 139 TO 243]

The numbers receiving education in public and private institutions have risen in the last decade from 3,692,006 to 4,463,770, an increase of 771,764, being at the rate of about 21 per cent. The increase in the number of male scholars was in the ratio of 19·5 per cent, the females having increased by 35·5 per cent. The relative numbers of males and females were :

		1890-91	1899-1900
Males	. . .	3,377,662	4,037,835
Females	. . .	314,344	425,935

the proportion of females to males receiving instruction being roughly in the proportion of one to ten. Not more than from two to three per cent of the girls advance beyond the primary stage of education.

Most of the scholars are taught in public institutions, which are classified as regards their administration as follows :

		No.	Number taught
Under public management	{ Managed by Government	1,133	103,584
	{ Managed by Local Fund Boards and Municipalities	17,742	944,916
	{ Maintained by Native States	3,742	171,063
Under private management	{ Aided by Government or by Local Fund Boards and Municipalities	62,856	2,087,898
	{ Unaided	21,959	542,788
TOTAL			3,850,249

The number in private institutions amounted in 1899 to only 613,486, which is less than 14 per cent of the whole number under instruction, more than 86 per cent being taught in "public" institutions. Nearly 70 per cent of the number under instruction are taught in schools managed or aided by the State or by local bodies—about 47 per cent in aided schools and 23·5 per cent in schools directly managed by Government or local bodies. Management by Government, however, is now quite a small feature in the educational system.

The classification of educational institutions as regards the description of education imparted and the number attending each class, is as follows :

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION—
Arts colleges :
English	No. of scholars
Oriental	15,757	530
Professional colleges :
Law	2,375
Medicine	1,151
Engineering	813
Teaching	71
Agriculture	47
SCHOOL EDUCATION, GENERAL—
Secondary schools :	Males	Females
High schools	230,508	10,004
Middle English schools	163,997	11,952
Middle Vernacular schools	156,834	19,534
Primary schools	3,015,040	188,819
SCHOOL EDUCATION, SPECIAL—
Schools for special instruction	31,927

The schools for special instruction, forming the last entry in the foregoing list, extend over a wide range of subjects. Training schools for masters and mistresses contain 4,454 and 1,510 students, respectively, and the other special schools, and the numbers attending them, are :

Schools of art	1,564
Law schools	403
Medical schools	2,388
Engineering and surveying schools	1,151
Industrial schools	3,727
Other schools	16,729

EDUCATION—continued

The colleges and schools detailed above are all "public" institutions. In addition to them there are the "private" institutions, which are classified as follows:

Advanced teaching:		No. of scholars
Arabic or Persian		42,167
Sanskrit		24,363
Other Oriental classics		1,027
Elementary teaching:
A vernacular only or mainly		357,694
The Korán		179,678
Other private schools, not conforming to departmental standards		8,557

In university education the colleges which train for the obtainment of degrees in arts contain more than three times the number of students who are attracted to the colleges which train for special degrees. In these latter the students going through the course for a degree in law greatly outnumber the students training for the attainment of degrees in all the other special courses combined.

Of the boys and girls at school in public institutions, amounting in number to 3,796,688, the great majority—as many as 84·4 per cent—are to be found in the primary schools and a rather larger proportion (537,372 out of 613,486) receive elementary instruction in the "private" institutions. The middle vernacular schools contain a smaller number of boys than either the high schools or the middle English schools, but they are more frequented by girls than the schools of either of the other two classes. It seems that boys who pursue their studies beyond the primary stage prefer to go to schools where English is taught, for the number of boys in the middle vernacular schools does not tend to increase, while the numbers attending the high schools and the middle English schools indicate a rising level.

The condition and stages of education of the boys and girls in public institutions on the 31st March 1900 are exhibited in the figures below:

	Boys	Girls
Lower Primary stage—
Not reading printed books	588,570	104,735
Reading printed books	2,191,954	237,471
Upper Primary stage	405,762	25,506
Middle stage	160,247	7,836
High stage [not matriculated]	73,094	1,513

On the same day 4,069,606 students (in public and private institutions) were learning only a vernacular; 507,945 were learning English, those learning only a vernacular being therefore eight times as numerous as those learning English; and 635,713 were learning a classical language.

The figures below indicate the extent to which the people of each province send their children to educational institutions, and the ratio of the school-going population to the total population according to the census of 1891. The figures are for 1899-1900:

	Males	Females	Total	Ratio per cent
Bengal	1,580,192	407,403	1,687,595	2·4
Madras	733,923	129,068	862,991	2·4
Bombay	542,895	88,310	631,205	3·3
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	404,997	20,770	425,767	0·9
Burma	255,519	32,468	287,987	3·7
Panjab	239,624	22,695	262,319	1·2
Central Provinces	122,798	11,103	133,901	1·2
Assam	98,930	8,738	107,668	2
Berar	45,427	3,128	48,555	1·7

Burma takes the lead educationally, a distinction which is in some degree due to the training given in the schools attached to the monasteries or hpungyi kyaungs in that province. Burma, moreover, has a relatively considerable number of girls in educational institutions, most of them in primary board or aided schools, many of these being kept up by missionaries. Bombay follows Burma very closely; and indeed, if Sind were separated, that province being still comparatively backward, the presidency (properly so called) would stand first of all the provinces in point of sending to school the largest ratio of the population. Bengal and Madras, both standing on the same level, follow next after Bombay, but at a considerable interval. The other provinces are still very backward, the North-Western Provinces presenting the worst record of all.

The number of university graduates in 1899-1900 was :

Arts	1,584
Law	350
Medicine	26
Engineering	15
Oriental languages and literature	4

In the last decennial period the universities have passed out 13,257 graduates in arts and 2,994 in law, a total of 16,251 graduates in these two subjects. Contrasted with this crowd we find that in the same period not more than 91 graduated in medicine and 86 in engineering, one reason for these very small numbers being doubtless found in the fact that the possession of a degree in medicine or engineering does not by itself qualify for the higher grades of Government professional service without special training in England, nor does the mere possession of the degrees, without other guarantees of competence, command the confidence of the public. In Oriental languages and literature—a degree conferred only by the Panjab university—there have been only 36 graduates in the ten years, while the same university conferred in the same period 941 degrees in arts. The university of Madras has passed out 4,350, and the university of Calcutta 4,304, graduates in arts in this period, the two together accounting for two-thirds of the M. A.'s and B. A.'s of India.

During the same period 44,933 undergraduates were enrolled, of whom 36,348 were entered for the arts course. It seems therefore that in these ten years but 36·6 per cent of the undergraduates attained to the possession of degrees.

Turning to the classification of scholars by race or creed, the following are the numbers as they stood on the 31st March 1900 :

Europeans and Eurasians	30,813
Native Christians	120,291
Hindus	3,004,996
Muhammadans	960,421
Others	347,214

The classification is defective by the omission of Buddhists and Zoroastrians, who are grouped under "others"; and the defect is unfortunate because it is well known that in both these communities education is very generally sought and given, and it would have been interesting to obtain a record of the facts. The statistics are also defective in not separating males from females in the classification, thus preventing the possibility of precise comparison of the relative dimensions of female education in each class of the community. So far as the statistics go they indicate that the number receiving education on the 31st March 1900 bore to the population of each class a ratio of 13·9 per cent for Europeans and Eurasians and of 1·9 per cent each for Hindus and Muhammadans.

The expenditure on education has steadily increased each year, amounting in 1899-1900 to Rs. 3,77,53,014, being 7·4 per cent greater than the expenditure five years before, in 1895-96. The direct expenditure on colleges and schools in 1899-1900 was Rs. 2,92,62,072, the difference between that sum and the total expenditure being classed as indirect expenditure on the universities, direction, inspection, scholarships, buildings, and so forth. The direct expenditure was thus divided :

Arts colleges	24,54,462
Professional colleges	10,50,241
Secondary schools	1,21,03,978
Primary schools	1,15,13,918
Training schools	7,87,337
Other special schools	13,52,136

X—continued.EDUCATION—continued.

The sources from which the total expenditure was met were:

	R
Provincial revenues	99,63,344
Local Funds	57,20,072
Municipal Funds	15,43,443
Fees	1,16,78,986
All other sources	88,23,167

The expenditure on education is met to the extent of between 30 and 31 per cent from fees.

XIREFORMATORY SCHOOLS

[TABLES I TO 4, PAGES 244 TO 247]

There are seven of these schools with a population which at the end of 1899 numbered 1,230. The fluctuations in number in the last five years have been slight. There were 303 admitted in the year, and 316 discharged. About three-fourths of the boys are Hindus and about a fifth Muhammadans, the proportion of Hindus and Muhammadans in the total population of the country being about 72 and 20 per cent, respectively. All of the 303 admitted were illiterate, with the exception of only 25 who were able to read.

Of the boys discharged in the three years preceding 1899—843 in number—32·6 per cent were following occupations taught them in school, and of these, agriculture engaged 22·7 per cent. About 26 per cent were following occupations not taught in the schools. Of 9·7 per cent unsatisfactory reports were received, while about 32 per cent were unemployed, were with friends, had died, or disappeared from observation.

The expenditure on the schools was about R1,11,000: it does not vary much from year to year.

Two of the schools are in Bengal, and there is one each in Madras, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Central Provinces, and Burma.

XIIPRINTING PRESSES AND PUBLICATIONS

[TABLE I, PAGE 248]

The number of registered presses rose in the ten years ending 1899-1900 from 1,484 to 2,153, an increase of about 45 per cent. The number of newspapers rose in the same period from 547 to 675, an increase of about 23 per cent. The number of periodical publications (other than newspapers) increased from 330 to 465, an increase of about 41 per cent. The number of books published in English, or in some other European language, increased from 664 to 1,164, being at the rate of 75 per cent, but there seems to be little or no indication of progress in the publication of books in the Indian languages, whether modern or classical. Their number, however, is still about six times as large as the number of books printed in English. About an equal number is published in Bengal and in the North-Western Provinces.

The provincial distribution of the productions of the printing press is as follows for 1899-1900:

	Newspapers	Other periodicals	English books	Indian books
Madras	92	97	302	882
Bombay	183	129	160	1,060
Bengal	110	117	510	1,668
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	137	72	92	1,670
Panjab	92	27	82	1,202
Burma	31	16	5	114
Central Provinces	9	3	7	54
Assam	11	...	1	41

XII—*continued*PRINTING PRESSES AND PUBLICATIONS—continued

The fertility of the Bengal presses is noticeable as regards the production of books printed in English, which greatly exceed in number those produced in any other province. In the number of newspapers, however, Bombay stands first, followed by the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

Of the total number (7,888) of books published in 1899-1900 in all languages, religion heads the list with 1,966, poetry and the drama following with 1,571, and language with 960. Fiction was represented by 290 books, history and biography 275, medicine 240, mathematics and mechanics 200, law 195, philosophy 121.

The languages in which the books are written are as diverse as their subjects. The following list states the number published in the principal languages:

English	1,164	Marathi	271
{ Urdu	1,133	Uriya	150
„ (roman characters)	11	Persian	114
Bengali	978	Pali-Burmese and
Hindi	781	Burmese	101
Gujarati	444	Arabic	51
Sanskrit	315	Kanarese	41
Panjabi	315	Malayalam	38
Telugu	303	Sindhi	36
Tamil	275	Assamese	34

And smaller numbers in two dozen other languages, besides 1,123 bilingual, 54 trilingual, and 8 polyglot books.

VITAL STATISTICS

[TABLES 1 TO 12, PAGES 249 TO 279]

These statistics are so very imperfect that they must be regarded as possessing only comparative value, the errors and defects which pervade them being repeated, in much the same degree, from year to year since 1892 when for the first time births and deaths were registered in identical areas. Before that year no registration of births was attempted over most of the area in Bengal in which deaths were registered. All conclusions and inferences from the statistics must therefore be drawn under reserve and with much caution. The population in which registration is carried on is about 214½ millions, which is 97 per cent of the total population, but the registration is imperfect and defective except in urban areas, and these are very limited in area and population.

Births and deaths generally

In 1897, which was a year of famine and plague, there was a material decline in the number of births while the number of deaths increased, and there was an excess of deaths over births in British India generally. This was mainly the outcome of reduced natality and increased mortality in the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and Bombay. In the Central Provinces especially the reduced natality and increased mortality were most remarkable. In 1898 there was a slightly increased natality, but a very marked decline in mortality. In 1899 there was a most remarkable advance in natality, while mortality continued relatively low, though much higher than in 1898. The increase in the birth-rate in 1899 seems to support the general observation that a year of fair crops following a period of distress brings with it a great increase in the number of births. The increase is most conspicuous in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjab, and the Central Provinces.

The general ratio of births in each thousand of the population was in each of the five years:

1895	34.57
1896	36.06
1897	33.98
1898	34.33
1899	42.16

XIII—*continued*VITAL STATISTICS—continued

The highest ratio of births is to be found in Berar, where it has varied in the five years between 31·3 and 50·5 per 1,000; and it is notably low in Madras, where it varied from 27·4 to 31·3. In Coorg the ratio is even lower than in Madras, and in this small tract, if the statistics are to be trusted, the inference should be drawn that the people are in a fair way to extinction, for the deaths largely outnumber the births. That this is not the case is proved by the recent census, and it is evident that the improvement of the registration should be taken in hand.

Male births outnumber female births in the proportion of about 106·4 to 100, but female deaths are to male deaths only as 100 to 111.

The total number of registered births and deaths in the five years ending 1899 were:

	Births	Deaths
Males	20,000,116	17,422,418
Females	18,670,717	15,354,169
Total	38,670,833	32,776,587

The excess of births over deaths was therefore only 5,894,246 in a population of 214,481,005 during the five years, and it would seem from the recent census that this excess, small as it is, was not real.

The general ratio of deaths in each thousand of the population was:

1895	33·62
1896	32·04
1897	36·03
1898	26·56
1899	30·01

The higher level of 1897 was conspicuous in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh (which also suffered from an excessively high death rate in 1894), in Madras, and above all, in the Central Provinces, where the ratio reached the extraordinary level of 69·32, this figure following on the high figure of 49·31 in 1896. In Berar also the death rate was very high from 1894, until it reached the exceptional level of 52·6 in 1897, declining again in 1898 as low as 23·4 but rising once more in 1899 to 39·9. In Assam and Coorg also 1897 was a fatal year. The elevated curve of 1897 was followed by a depression in 1898, which was a good year, but there was a material increase in 1899, due to fevers in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and to the existence of famine and plague in Western India.

Urban and rural mortality

The mortality in towns, as recorded, is always relatively much higher than in the rural tracts:

	Urban	Rural
1895	32·84	28·65
1896	36·45	31·66
1897	43·65	35·47
1898	33·17	26·05
1899	38·61	29·33

It is true that in many of the larger cities and towns conditions hostile to human life exist in a higher degree than they do in the country; but the presence of such conditions can hardly be accepted as a complete and sufficient reason for the marked difference in the ratio, and probably an important factor is to be found in the greater efficiency of registration in the towns. Another reason is to be found in the occurrence from time to time of an epidemic within urban limits, as, for instance, of plague in Bombay and Karachi, when the ratio of deaths in the population of a restricted area is immediately and largely increased. In a time of famine also, as in Bombay in 1899 and 1900, crowds of starving creatures swarm from the districts into the largest centres of population in search of food and work. An extraordinary ratio—as high as 81·57—is noticeable in the towns of the Central Provinces in 1897, followed, on the disappearance of famine in 1898, by a fall to 27·62. In 1899 there was a marked increase in deaths in towns in Bombay.

XIII—continued

VITAL STATISTICS—concluded

Mortality according to age

The whole recorded mortality in 1899 was 6,436,413; and in this total 1,804,400 represent the deaths of infants under one year, and 1,000,682 of children between one and five years old. The mortality of infants up to five years old thus formed 43 per cent of the whole in 1899; it was 37 per cent in 1897, and 40 per cent in 1898.

Passing from infant mortality it appears from the figures that the highest number of deaths is amongst persons of 60 years of age and more, these numbering 736,612 in 1899, being nearly 12 per cent of all the recorded deaths. But the record of age in India must be regarded as almost entirely untrustworthy.

Mortality according to cause

The causes of mortality are not specified in the detail which is to be desired, the specification being limited to cholera, small-pox, fevers, bowel complaints, and injuries. The last three items are susceptible of great and useful expansion. Fevers, for instance, which account for about two-thirds of the whole mortality, include every type from simple continued fever to malarial and enteric fever and the bubonic plague, and in the rural tracts it frequently happens that diseases of the respiratory system accompanied by high fever are registered under the head fevers. Deaths from fevers numbered just under five millions in 1897, and just over four millions in 1899.

Deaths from cholera and small-pox vary greatly with the presence or absence of epidemics. In 1898 and 1899 the mortality from cholera was comparatively low, but the disease was extensively epidemic in 1900, and it is to be feared that the record of that year will be bad. In 1898 and 1899 there was also a comparatively low mortality from small-pox:

	Cholera	Small-pox
1895	311,086	44,682
1896	469,679	136,605
1897	550,787	160,217
1898	150,817	55,713
1899	169,237	49,560

In this quinquennium 1,651,606 persons are reported to have died of cholera, the annual average mortality from this cause being upwards of 300,000 persons. From small-pox the deaths were little more than one-fourth the deaths from cholera, amounting in the quinquennium to 446,177.

The conditions of the country have been so disturbed by the presence of famine and plague in extensive regions, and the registration in some places is so much more defective than in others, that it would be futile to attempt to draw any inferences from the statistics of the relative positions of the provinces from the point of view of healthiness. In 1899 conditions were more or less normal, though some provinces had begun to suffer from the recent scarcity, and in that year the relative positions of the larger provinces, looking at the ratio of mortality per mille of the population, were as follows:

Bombay	35.72
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	32.76
Bengal	31.21
Assam	31.01
Panjab	29.57
Central Provinces	27.65
Burma	27.3
Madras	20.1

Mortality according to season

June and July are the healthiest months of the year in India generally, the death-rate being then at its lowest level. With the progress of the rains the rate rises in August and September, and after the cessation of the rains the autumnal fevers, and other diseases generated by the saturated condition of the soil, raise the death-rate to a high level in October. The cold weather brings with it in November and December a still higher range of mortality increased by pneumonia and pulmonary complaints, these two months being the unhealthiest of the year. In January the death-rate recedes,

XIII—concluded

VITAL STATISTICS—concluded

though still on a high level, and it falls to its lowest level in February, the healthiest month of the year. In March, April, and May the rate is raised by the occurrence of cholera and small-pox at that season though it is otherwise healthy. Speaking generally, the spring and summer months—February to July inclusive—are the healthiest time of the year, and the autumn and winter months—August to January inclusive—the unhealthiest. The rate of mortality runs as follows in these two periods of the year:

Spring and summer	Autumn and winter
February . . . 2'11	August . . . 2'67
March . . . 2'36	September . . . 2'67
April . . . 2'4	October . . . 2'88
May . . . 2'46	November . . . 2'98
June . . . 2'27	December . . . 3'01
July . . . 2'28	January . . . 2'6

The coincidence between the rise in mortality and the fall in temperature is most marked in Northern India; in the peninsular region the diurnal range of the thermometer is not nearly as great as in the continental region.

Mortality according to class

The Christians are, as might be expected, the healthiest section of the community, the registration of mortality giving for them the lowest ratios in 1897, 1898, and 1899, but no doubt registration is much more complete and accurate for them than for the other sections. The ratios stand thus for the last five years:

	Christians	Hindus	Muhammadans	Buddhists
1895 . . .	24'74	30'32	29'66	22'71
1896 . . .	27'51	32'19	30'06	25'8
1897 . . .	25'34	39'44	37'68	27'88
1898 . . .	21'03	27'5	27'26	25'84
1899 . . .	22'79	31'21	29'67	23'59

HOSPITALS

[TABLES I TO 5, PAGES 280 TO 289]

The number of these institutions increased from 2,210 in 1895 to 2,483 in 1899. They are grouped in the following classes:

- (1) maintained and managed by the State
- (2) " " by Local Funds
- (3) " " by private individuals and associations
- (4) " " " with the aid of grants from the State or from Local Funds

There is an increase in the number in each class, most marked in the first. More than two-thirds of the institutions, however, are comprised in the second class, these numbering as many as 1,693, being 69 per cent of the whole. Only 311 hospitals are in the third class (maintained entirely by private individuals and associations), and of these there are as many as 120 in Bombay and Sind, with a population of 19 millions, and 95 in Bengal, with a population of 71 millions; there are only 14 in Madras. In the last class—institutions supported by private subscription or endowment, aided by the State or from Local Funds—there are 175. Of such, there are 75 in Bengal, and only six in Bombay; 45 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and 24 in Madras. Grouping these two classes of private hospitals, whether aided or not by State or Local Funds, their distribution is as follows:

Bengal	177
Bombay	127
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	83
Central Provinces	36
Madras	43
Panjab	12
Coorg	5

XIV—*continued*HOSPITALS—continued

The number of indoor patients treated in 1899 was 357,460, a larger number than in 1898 but smaller than in 1897 when famine and plague were both at the maximum of intensity. Of this number, 29,045, being about 8 per cent, died, the number cured being reported to be 230,061, or about 64 per cent; the remainder were relieved or otherwise discharged. The average ratio of cured to treated in the four years preceding 1899 was 62·6 per cent. The number treated in each province was as follows in 1899:

	No.	Ratio to population
Madras Presidency	63,184	1·77 per mille
Bombay Presidency	50,902	2·7 „
Bengal	72,043	1·01 „
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	59,643	1·27 „
Panjab	51,967	2·49 „
Burma	34,749	4·47 „
Central Provinces	11,434	1·06 „
Assam	6,217	1·14 „
Coorg	1,040	6·01 „
Beraf	3,834	1·32 „

It is not clear why the Madras Presidency should provide a number of inmates for hospitals but little smaller than Bengal, which has more than double the population of Madras. The relatively large number of patients in Burma is due perhaps to the absence of caste restrictions in that province. Another fact to be noticed, though the explanation is obvious, is that the three cities of Bombay, Calcutta, and Madras find as many as 58,891 patients, being 16·5 per cent of the whole.

Of the 15,473 indoor patients daily treated on the average in 1899, only 3,499 (being 22·6 per cent) were women. The number of outdoor patients treated was 20,320,822 in 1899, which is a considerable increase over the number in 1898 and the average. The numbers increased largely in Bengal and in some other provinces.

The principal diseases treated, according to the specification in the statistics, were:

	1898	1899		1898	1899
Malarial fevers	3,201,805	3,163,444	Worms	999,321	1,087,146
Dyspepsia, liver disease, and other diseases of the digestive system	2,474,361	2,731,594	Diseases of the ear	861,635	938,241
Diseases of the skin	1,939,334	2,056,400	Rheumatism	691,605	737,893
„ „ eye	1,688,736	1,763,549	Dysentery	379,032	412,292
Ulcers	1,540,810	1,591,037	Diarrhoea	364,555	391,178
Diseases of the lungs and respiratory system	1,189,156	1,281,890	Venereal diseases	376,713	375,245

Small-pox and cholera find a very small place in the list, the number of the former being only 3,112 and of the latter 17,882. Injuries numbered 746,843 cases, and 819,055 surgical operations were performed.

The total income of the hospitals and dispensaries in 1899 was Rs 78,16,340, the sources whence this sum was derived being, to the extent of approximately 75 per cent, as follows:

	Rs
From Government	26,56,823
„ Local Funds	16,77,476
„ Municipal Funds	15,16,588

The remaining fourth was mainly derived from interest on investments, from the sale of securities, from subscriptions (Rs 1,26,821 from Europeans and Rs 4,60,749 from natives), payments by patients, sale of medicines, and so forth.

The expenditure in the same year amounted to Rs 70,55,624, of which Rs 13,09,970 represented salaries and wages defrayed by Government, and Rs 19,62,155 salaries and wages defrayed from Local Funds, these representing about 46·4 per cent of the total expenditure. The other principal items of expenditure were: drugs and medicines Rs 9,20,246; diet Rs 7,60,875; and buildings and repairs Rs 9,89,329.

XV

LUNATICS

[TABLES I TO 7, PAGES 290 TO 302]

The number admitted into asylums in 1899 was 1,299, the average of the five years ending 1899 being 1,194; on the first day of the year there were 4,584 already in the asylums; and the total asylum population of the year was 5,987, including 104 re-admitted in the year. The average daily population was 5,781, of whom 4,583 were males and 1,197 females, the former being nearly four-fifths of the whole. The insane population does not apparently tend to increase, but the insanes admitted into asylums represent only a relatively small proportion of the insane population. Of the insanes in the asylums in the year :

555 were discharged cured
 248 made over to friends (improved in condition)
 44 " " (not improved)
 80 discharged otherwise
 396 died

The religion of the insanes admitted in the year was as follows :

177 Christians, of whom 126 were Europeans and Eurasians
 810 Hindus
 303 Muhammadans
 113 other religions

The Christians, who are mainly drawn from the natives and Eurasians of Bombay and Madras, were 12·6 per cent of the whole, this ratio largely exceeding the ratio of Christians to the total population, which is not more than about 0·7 per cent. The explanation of the apparent excess of insanity amongst them is doubtless to be found, in the main, in the fact that amongst these classes the outbreak of insanity is immediately followed by removal to an asylum as the best place for the comfort and safety of the patient. The Muhammadans, who are most numerous in the Panjab and Bombay, contributed 21·6 per cent, a proportion about equal to their ratio to the general population. Only 57·7 per cent of the admissions were Hindus, this low proportion being probably due to the fact that many harmless lunatics of that religion remain at large and are not brought to the asylums.

The lunatics admitted in each province are as follow, for 1898 and 1899 :

	Number		Ratio per 10,000 of population
	1898	1899
Bombay	282	303	·16
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	206	319	·07
Bengal	177	239	·03
Panjab	170	183	·09
Madras	134	151	·04
Burma	88	117	·15
Central Provinces	73	69	·06
Assam	29	22	·04

The large increase in the North-Western Provinces was partly due to the transfer of harmless criminal lunatics from the prisons to the asylums in pursuance of a decision that no lunatics should be retained in prison. The increase in Bengal is not accounted for. Of those admitted in the year, 372 were criminals, the average number of these admitted in the last five years being 287. The average mortality amongst this class was 98 annually, being in the extraordinarily high proportion of 34 per cent of the number admitted.

The occupations (as far as known) of the lunatics who were admitted in 1898 and 1899 are thus described :

	1898	1899
Cultivators and labourers	316	417
Domestic servants	97	116
Mendicants and paupers	96	128
Artisans	63	95
Soldiers	74	95
Traders and shopkeepers	87	80
Teachers, students, and writers	69	78

XV—continued

LUNATICS—continued

The prevailing forms of insanity in the asylum population in 1899, are stated to have been: mania 3,396 cases, dementia 889, melancholia 836, epileptic insanity 340, idiocy 224.

Amongst the alleged causes of insanity the use of hemp is prominent with 606 cases; hereditary and congenital insanity follows with 369 cases; epilepsy accounts for 298, and alcoholism for 144 cases; the use of opium is responsible for not more than 34 cases, of which 7 arose out of opium smoking and 27 from opium eating. To moral causes as many as 814 cases are assigned, but it should be noted that the classification is defective, the cause of insanity being unknown in more than half the cases in the asylums and inaccurately stated in many cases.

The expenditure on the asylums, which has averaged almost exactly seven lakhs annually and amounted to ₹7,22,960 in 1899, is defrayed for the most part by the State. Of the expenditure in 1899, for instance, ₹5,18,178 was found by the State, ₹65,201 was obtained from fees, and ₹1,39,581 from other sources.

VACCINATION

[TABLES 1 TO 8, PAGES 303 TO 312]

Vaccinations are conducted by the agency of a special department established for the purpose and also by the staff attached to the ordinary hospitals and dispensaries. In the twenty years ending 1899-1900 the number of persons vaccinated rose from 4,415,158 to 8,122,607. In the last five years the average number annually vaccinated was 7,875,457. In two of those years, 1896-97 and 1897-98 (which were also years in which plague and famine prevailed), small-pox was epidemic and carried off an unusually large number of victims; in 1897-98 there were as many as 160,217 deaths from this disease; in 1898-99 the number of deaths declined to 55,713 while in 1899-1900 the number fell to 49,466. The cost of the special department in 1899-1900 was ₹10,98,423; the average for the five years ending 1899-1900 was ₹11,10,700. The work is carried on as a branch of the Sanitary Department in each province under the general control of the provincial Sanitary Commissioner; and the staff employed in 1899-1900 included 201 superintendents, 98 deputy superintendents, 381 native superintendents, and 6,817 vaccinators.

The bulk of the expenditure is defrayed from provincial, local, and municipal funds, the sums paid from each source in 1898-99 being:

	R
Provincial	4,08,787
Local	4,51,654
Municipal	1,77,681

The numbers vaccinated by the special department are divided not very unequally between the sexes, males numbering 4,197,831 and females 3,732,021 in 1899-1900. Of these numbers 6,337,648 are reported to have been children under six years old who were successfully vaccinated. Assuming the birth rate at 40 per thousand of the population, it is estimated that the number of children under a year old vaccinated successfully (3,465,032) represented 38·1 per cent. of the births.

The ratio of deaths from small-pox in each thousand of the population is lowest in Bombay, Berar, and Bengal, those provinces contrasting markedly with the others.

XVII

MUNICIPALITIES

[TABLES 1 TO 4, PAGES 313—349]

Municipal self-government is widely diffused in India, every province being furnished with a more or less considerable number of municipal committees. Altogether, including the two large municipal corporations of Calcutta and Bombay, there are 762 of these bodies in India, regulating the civic affairs of areas containing a population of a little under sixteen millions. In many provinces, extremely small localities possess municipal committees; thus, in the Panjab there are 148 committees for an urban population of just over two millions, the average population being 14,133 for each municipal area; while in Assam the average municipal area has a population of only about 6,000, and in Coorg hardly more than half that figure.

The municipalities consist of 10,513 members. Almost exactly half this number (5,113) represent ex-officio and nominated members, the official element comprising 2,361 members, being 22 per cent of the whole. Practically the municipalities are native in their constitution, the European and Eurasian members numbering only 1,328, being 12·6 per cent of the whole.

The income of the municipalities has increased from Rs 511·2 lakhs in 1895-96 to Rs 783·69 lakhs in 1899-1900, an increase of 53 per cent, but much of this increase is merely apparent, that is, though it is an increase of income it is not an increase of revenue. Deducting from the income all debt incurred, advances, and deposits, and confining attention to substantial revenue, the figures for 1899-1900 are Rs 443·63 lakhs and those for 1895-96 Rs 383·83 lakhs, the increase being about 16 per cent in the five years.

During the five years the municipalities borrowed from Government Rs 76·17 lakhs and in the money market Rs 244·1 lakhs, and they paid off debt to the extent of Rs 116·93 lakhs, the net increase to the amount of debt in this period being Rs 203·34 lakhs. Close on two-thirds of the borrowing—about 64 per cent—was incurred by the municipalities of the cities of Calcutta and Bombay.

Municipal rates and taxes yielded about 330 lakhs of rupees in 1899-1900, a third of this sum being derived from octroi, and of the octroi revenue approximately two-thirds were obtained from articles of food and drink. The octroi is restricted to Northern and Western India, being known only in Bombay, the Central Provinces, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Panjab. In these regions it is the principal form of municipal taxation, except in the city of Bombay where it is not so important as other sources of taxation. The figures below indicate (in lakhs of rupees) the extent to which municipal revenues are allowed to depend upon octroi in the provinces in which that form of taxation exists:

	Octroi	Other taxes
Bombay, excluding city	24·24	18
Bombay city	19·65	58·6
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	26·35	10·92
Panjab	30·22	2·37
Central Provinces	8·62	2·6

In the Panjab the octroi represents 93 per cent of municipal taxation; in the North-Western and Central Provinces 71 and 77 per cent respectively; and in the Bombay district municipalities 57 per cent.

Apart from the octroi, the principal forms of municipal taxation are the following, the figures being for all municipalities in 1899-1900 (in lakhs of rupees):

House and land tax	94·83
Water rate	45·63
Conservancy tax	27·26
Vehicles and animals	12·81
Tolls on roads and ferries	10·08
Professions and trades	9·43
Lighting rate	6·39

There has been a continuous increase from year to year in the income from the taxes on houses and lands, the water, lighting, and conservancy rates; but the statistics do not provide the means of discriminating between that portion of the increment which is due to greater productiveness and that which is due to enhancement of rates.

A small proportion of the income of municipalities is derived from grants made by the Government, or from local funds or other sources, for specific purposes. These grants amounted to Rs 62·26 lakhs in the last two years, Rs 20·35 lakhs being from Government on account of the plague.

The general incidence of municipal taxation per head of the population of the municipal area was Rs 2.07 in 1899-1900, but it varies greatly in different areas, thus:

Presidency of Madras	1.01	Panjab	1.42
City of Madras	2.28	Burma—Upper	1.01
Presidency of Bombay	1.88	Lower	1.35
City of Bombay	9.52	Rangoon	5.1
Bengal	1.09	Central Provinces	1.64
Calcutta	6.76	Assam	1.31
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	1.16	Berar	0.57

The expenditure of the municipalities last year was Rs 786.33 lakhs, which was 54 per cent more than five years previously. The principal items are the following, the figures being for 1899-1900 and in lakhs of rupees:

Conservancy	89.64
General administration, including cost of collection	54.69
Public works, including roads, buildings, stores, and establishment	49.68
Interest on loans	47.18
Fire, lighting, police	37.4
Water supply	33.6
Drainage	31.99
Hospitals and vaccination	27.08
Education	24.82

A considerable proportion of the expenditure on conservancy is incurred in the larger cities, Bombay being prominent here:

	Rs (lakhs)
Bombay	19.88
Calcutta	10.21
Madras	4.29
Rangoon	3.23

Outside of these cities the sums spent on conservancy in individual municipal areas are relatively small.

XVIII

LOCAL BOARDS

[TABLES 1 TO 4, PAGES 350 TO 365]

The duties and functions assigned to the municipalities in urban areas are assigned to the Boards in rural areas. They are at work, under the sanction of the legislature (given in and about 1884), in every province except two, Burma and Coorg. In each district there is a Board, subordinate to which are two or more local Boards, and, in the Madras Presidency, Union Committees or Panchayets. There are in India 204 District Boards and 514 local Boards subordinate to them; in Madras there are also 381 Union Committees. The population of the tracts over which the Boards have jurisdiction was about 193 millions in 1899-1900, according to the local reports. The members of the Boards numbered 16,334 in 1899-1900, of whom 5,628, being about one-third, were elected. The others were nominated or ex-officio members, 8,935 of the former and 1,771 of the latter, and of these latter more than half are on the Madras Boards which are far more largely worked by official agency than the Boards of any other province. The number of nominated members in that province is also far larger than it is elsewhere, and the number of elected members relatively small, there being only 309 elected members in a total of 5,387. The reason for these facts is to be found in the large number of Union Committees in Madras. The presidency of Bombay presents a remarkable contrast to Madras in these respects: the number of ex-officio and nominated members is very small, and the proportion of elected members large.

The percentage of elected members in the whole number is as follows :

Madras	.	.	.	.	.	57
Bombay	.	.	.	.	.	45
Bengal	.	.	.	.	.	34·8
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	.	.	.	.	.	64·8
Panjab	.	.	.	.	.	42·4
Central Provinces	.	.	.	.	.	75·7
Assam	.	.	.	.	.	38·3
Berar	.	.	.	.	.	70

Everywhere except in Madras the elective system returns a substantial proportion of the members of the Board, the majority of the members being elected in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Central Provinces, and Berar. Officials numbered 3,781, being in the ratio of 23 per cent. The Boards are practically manned by natives who constitute 93 per cent of the whole, numbering 15,215 to only 1,119 Europeans and Eurasians, these latter being outnumbered in the proportion of 15 to 1. In proportion to population Assam returns the largest number of Europeans to the Boards, in consequence of the large tea-planting industry in that province.

The income of the Boards, which is derived to the extent of about three-fifths from provincial rates imposed and collected by the local Governments and assigned by them to the Boards, amounted in 1899-1900 to about ₹315 lakhs. Five years previously it was about ₹305 lakhs, the increase in the period being at the rate of 3 per cent. The amount received from provincial rates, which was in 1899-1900 ₹185·05 lakhs, increased in the same period by about 6·5 per cent, having risen from ₹173·69 lakhs. The other most important sources of income are contributions from provincial revenues, which represented ₹32·65 lakhs in 1899-1900, and receipts from public works, ₹35·79 lakhs.

The expenditure of the Boards in the same period has risen from ₹310·45 lakhs to ₹319·87 lakhs, an increase here also of 3 per cent. The principal objects of expenditure are : education, ₹65·96 lakhs, largely in the maintenance of schools ; medical, ₹36·32 lakhs, mainly on hospitals and dispensaries, sanitation, and vaccination ; and, largest of all, the construction and maintenance of public works, such as roads and bridges : this item represents ₹147·55 lakhs. The three heads combined represent nearly four-fifths of the expenditure of the Boards.

XIX

FACTORIES

[TABLES I TO 5, PAGES 366 TO 381]

In 1899 the officials administering the Factories Act recorded that there were within the scope of the Act 79 factories belonging to the State and to local bodies, such as municipalities, port trusts, and railways. Among these there were 11 printing presses and 16 railway workshops, 8 canal and engineering workshops, and a considerable number of military arsenals and factories.

Factories worked by steam and owned by companies or individuals numbered 1,039 concerns, the more important of these being :

	1898	1899
Cotton mills	155	170
Jute mills	33	35
Cotton presses	398	416
Jute presses	42	47
Iron-works and foundries	42	45
Rice mills	77	84
Saw mills	57	55

These represent more than four-fifths of the total number. The factories created by the cotton industry exist principally in Bombay, those relating to the jute industry in Bengal ; while rice mills and saw mills are most largely an industry for the exploitation of the two principal products of Burma—rice and teakwood. Of the other factories there are none largely assigned to any particular industry.

There were also 38 factories not worked by steam, including 15 jute presses.

There were 452,796 persons employed daily on the average in the factories inspected, namely:

		1898	1899
Adults	{ Males	334,594	368,029
	{ Females	60,603	65,308
Children	{ Males	23,219	22,939
	{ Females	4,313	4,520

Of this total 163,898 (being 36 per cent) were employed in factories in Bombay and 173,487 (being 38 per cent) in Bengal, these two provinces employing about three-fourths of all the factory labour of India.

There were 2,603 accidents reported in 1899. Much the largest number—1,473, being more than half of the whole—occurred in Bombay, the fact indicating perhaps closer and more intimate knowledge of conditions by the officers administering the law rather than an actually disproportionate number of accidents. Of the whole number of accidents 77 were fatal, which can hardly be considered a large ratio in a working population of careless habits numbering about 453,000 daily, and 489 were serious.

There were 17 offences against the law reported in 1898, and only three in 1899. Of these, two (in the North-Western Provinces) were on account on the corrupt use of certificates of age of children and the third (in Bombay) for employing children in contravention of the Act.

XX.

WILD ANIMALS AND SNAKES

[TABLES I TO 7, PAGES 382 TO 390]

Human beings killed

In the 25 years over which the tables extend the number of human beings reported to have been killed by wild animals was 74,792, and by snakes 500,770; making together well over half a million people (575,562). It is probable that many such deaths are not reported; and on the other hand it is also probable that a number of deaths are assigned to the action of wild animals and snakes which were not so caused. To judge whether the spread of cultivation and the rewards offered by Government for the destruction of wild animals and snakes have had any material effect in diminishing the mortality caused by them it will be well to take the 25 years in periods of five years each. The numbers of persons killed are as follow:

Five years ending	By wild animals	By snakes
1879	3,363	16,701
" " 1884	2,767	19,407
" " 1889	2,642	21,013
" " 1894	2,796	20,919
" " 1899	3,389	22,103

It will be observed that the loss of life from wild animals has remained at a fairly steady level, except in the two periods forming the beginning and end of the series, when it was abnormally high. In both periods the increased mortality occurred in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and was coincident with prolonged and intense drought and scarcity when wolves are always most daring and dangerous. The increase in the number of deaths of human beings (mostly children) from wolves in those provinces during the recent famine will be apparent from the following figures:

1895	246
1896	417
1897	426
1898	379
1899	271

XX—continued

WILD ANIMALS AND SNAKES—concluded

The mortality from wild animals and snakes is greatest of all in Bengal, the North-Western Provinces coming next, these two provinces indeed reporting nearly three-fourths of the whole number of deaths. The sad pre-eminence of Bengal in this respect will be apparent from the number of persons killed in 1899 :

	By wild animals	By snakes
Bengal	1,632	12,220
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	503	5,579
Madras	189	1,695
Burma	120	1,418
Central Provinces	282	1,132
Bombay	26	1,122
Panjab	50	1,049
Assam	145	193

The most destructive beast is the tiger, to whom may be assigned about a third of the whole mortality, the average approximating to one thousand persons annually. In 1899, 899 persons were killed by tigers, 446 of them in Bengal and 145 in the Central Provinces, the tiger being more destructive in those two provinces than any other animal, though the leopard is not very much less dangerous. The wolf is worst in the North-Western Provinces where 80 per cent of the whole mortality from wolves in 1899 is recorded. The following figures state the mortality from each principal kind of wild beast in 1899 :

Tigers	899
Wolves	338
Leopards	327
Bears	95
Elephants (mostly in Bengal, Assam, and Burma)	40
Hyenas	37
Other animals	1,230

Of the 1,230 deaths from "other animals" as many as 860 occurred in Bengal, the largest part of them being assigned to jackals and crocodiles.

Cattle killed

In the 25 years for which the loss of life by human beings has been recorded, the number of cattle killed by wild animals and snakes was 1,678,391, of which 1,578,173 are set down to the account of wild animals. The deaths in the last five years are :

	By wild animals	By snakes
1895	93,978	6,129
1896	81,559	7,143
1897	76,633	7,504
1898	83,007	8,743
1899	89,238	9,449

Thus it appears that snakes are not nearly so dangerous to cattle as to human beings, while wild animals prey far more largely on domestic animals than on human beings. The human dwelling is in fact a favourite resort for snakes, while the beast prefers the cowshed. Here the leopard is about as destructive as the tiger, more so indeed in 1898 and 1899. These two animals combined killed over four-fifths of all the cattle killed by wild beasts in 1899.

The principal losses of cattle occurred in the provinces noted below, Bengal here also taking the first place :

	By wild animals	By snakes
Bengal	29,624	915
Assam	16,811	199
Madras	13,480	2,112
Central Provinces	11,214	475
Burma	5,811	5,205
North-Western Provinces and Oudh	6,580	365

XX—concludedWILD ANIMALS AND SNAKES—concludedWild animals and snakes killed*

Rewards are given for the destruction of wild animals and snakes, averaging Rs. 1,13,772 annually in the last five years, most of them being on account of wild animals. Very little money is now expended on account of the destruction of snakes, no rewards being given in some provinces. The Government also give, free of charge, licenses under the Arms Act to possess weapons for the destruction of wild beasts, and there were 49,206 such licenses in force in 1899. The effect of these measures is apparent from the following figures, representing the number of wild animals and snakes killed in each of the last five years:

							Wild animals	Snakes
1895	.	.	.	.	.	.	15,543	131,726
1896	.	.	.	.	.	.	18,084	122,360

1899	.	.	.	.	.	.	18,887	94,548

The principal animals killed in 1899 were 4,548 leopards, 2,357 wolves (854 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh), 1,585 bears, 1,570 tigers, 776 hyenas, 68 elephants, and 7,989 other animals.
